

About Matthew Yanke, Planet Earth Products

From the ages of 20 to 30 I managed a health food store for a group of environmental researchers and healers. I spent in those years usually 80-100 hours a week, working in the store, learning everything I could about holistic living. I became proficient in many things related to alternative health, including massage, organic food preparation raw, vegan and cooked, juicing, Gerson's diet, supplements and their functions, biofeedback therapies, biodynamic farming and organic farming and more. I started selling organic silica products about 10 years ago after our group discovered an article about it's inventor.
