

Michael Connelly is a retired attorney and a U.S. Army Veteran. He received his Juris Doctorate degree from Louisiana State University in 1973 and practiced law in Baton Rouge, Louisiana for 26 years and currently lives in Carrollton, Texas. He specialized in Constitutional law during his practice and handled cases involving the 1st, 2nd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 9th, and 10th Amendments of the Constitution. He currently teaches four law courses on the Internet, including one on Constitutional law. The courses are offered through colleges and universities worldwide. He is also a freelance writer and the author of three books, "The Mortarmen" a book about his father's unit during WW II, "Riders in the Sky: The Ghosts and Legends of Philmont Scout Ranch", and his newly released novel, "Amayehli: A Story of America". He has also started a new blog that deals with the current efforts by Congress and the Executive branch to limit the Constitutional rights that are the birthright of every American. Over the years he has written numerous articles on the law and other issues, has made hundreds of speeches to civic groups, has served as a Boy Scout leader, and is currently the Commander of American Legion Post 597 in Carrollton, Texas. Michael is the Executive Director of the United States Justice Foundation that works on Constitutional law cases. It's website is www.usjf.net.
