

Mike Knocks is the owner of White Harvest Seed Company

About White Harvest Seed Company

The southern Missouri Ozarks is home to us. The Lord lead our family to these rolling hills and since then our hearts have never left. In 2010, we started our heirloom seed business – White Harvest. (Read here to see how we got our name.) It's been a wonderful work-in-progress ever since. And we consider ourselves blessed to be able to work from home providing fellow gardeners with the heirloom seeds we love.

"Pleasure in the job puts perfection in the work." Aristotle

In the past 15+ years, our family has really sharpened our focus upon growing as much of our own food as possible. The taste and quality of store-bought produce left so much to be desired that we stepped out and began sowing seeds in our rocky soil with hope. We watched in delight as those beloved plants produced delicious fruits and there – in our homegrown haven – we found the happier version of ourselves.

“For thou shalt eat the labor of thine hands: Happy shalt thou be, and it shall be well with thee.” Psalm 128:2

We're here today to share our passion for gardening and encourage others to keep sowing and growing. Our lives have greatly changed since opening our business. By the grace of God, we're still working and gardening and learning. We're excited to see what He has in store for us... and for you as well.

May the Lord establish the work of our hands. (Psalm 90:17)

Mike, Diane, Savanna, Andrew, and family